

Project Green Challenge

Day 2 (GREENER)

I chose to design my own step. I want to promote sustainability and education around the subject throughout my campus. I am going to do this first by sharing the Nature Speaks: Soil video in my soils class tomorrow. I have already reached out to my professor and I will need to introduce the video as well as explain my involvement in the challenge. (See photo of email exchange as evidence, as this challenge will be over before I can present. I also cannot post about it in time because of this, but I will when I've completed it!) This is a small first step that I plan on branching out with and keeping as a focus as I continue this challenge and beyond.
