

Whitney Taylor
Whittydiddy
whitneytaylor@outlook.com
University of Idaho

Day Four- Greenest

I created this drawing in order to raise awareness about consumption and the idea that although you may think it is good for you, it makes many other species suffer. Our ecosystem is being harmed through this vicious cycle, and it is time we make a change. I thought a great way to spread awareness with this drawing would be to email the Sustainability Center at the University of Idaho and ask them to use it to use it. I know the Sustainability Center at the University is always raising awareness about how to be more environmentally conscious, so they would have a good idea to get the word spread on campus with my drawing. I also have been showing many people around me my drawing.

*See next page for picture/email

