Tree Cucumber Fruit Extract Multipurpose Cleaner

Ingredients:

1 cup tree cucumber
1/2 cup rock salt

Procedure:

Mix the tree cucumber and salt.
Mix it in a blender.
When its finely chopped in the blender, strain it.

Put in a reusable spray container with label.

How yo use it:

Spray in a tile - bathroom or sink area.

Let it stay for an hour.

After an hour, brush the area to see cleansing effect of the tree cucumber.

END PRODUCT:

It feels much pleasant in smell because unlike the commercial cleaners that we usually buy, this DIY cleaner contributes to the environment by lessening the amount of chemicals being deposited into our waste treatment and thus, indirectly helping in preserving the integrity of our planet. Since this cleaner is a spray-on, it is much easier to use it in comparison to the water-based cleaners found in the market. This also does not emit any chemical odor which in turn does not harm the air that we breathe. This also is organic so it does not poison our land and water supply if we accidentally pour it. In short, this helps save the environment by procuring the same outcome as the chemical cleaners that we buy in the market all while having very little to no side effects.

kyrri_ This is my take on the Home Challenge by PGC. Going green with our products is important to us humans because with the evolution of technology, we tend to forget that we can utilize greener methods which may not harm the environment, yet we all choose to buy and entertain chemical products which still perform the same outcome as organic alternatives yet the devastating effects of both if compared are on the far ends of the spectrum. We humans destroy our environment due to our habits of consumerism. So please, do consider to stick to organic. It helps us in the long run because we help the environment which in turn sustains our lives. Kamias Tile Cleaner (Kamias is tree cucumber)
