PGC - Day 26
Greenest

I am a multifaceted human being and the issues the world faces today are diverse, complex, and multi-sided. There is no one size fits all solution to restoring balance to our Earth. I am passionate about queer rights and climate change, about creating a world where no human being is illegal and human rights apply equally to all people, but also in ensuring we still have a viable planet where these social justice shifts can actually take place. Everything is connected.

I'm not certain yet what I will do to heal the planet. But I know for now I will continue to educate, to explain to people how to change their actions for the better, to hold corporations and political bodies responsible for their actions. I will vote. I will teach. I will love. I will persist.
