

These are examples of green spaces and gentrification around a redlining area. Little Haiti is now being renovated with modern buildings and less green spaces. Low income residents of this area are disappearing due to wealthier Miami developers spiking rent rates and replacing local shops with retail stores.