RESTAURANTS

Here in Peru, very few restaurants participate in these food donation programs, which is carried out in my country, they are donations from large supermarket companies that every day have some losses due to an error in packaging the product or a close date Upon expiration, these types of products are donated to small establishments such as Local Canteens of some human settlement, or to common pots made by neighbors due to the need to reduce expenses. Thus these companies directly provide products such as pasta, cereals, so that they can complete their plate of food for several people in the place.

LETTER

Good Afternoon,

Q'umir Llaqta greets you, hoping you are in good health.

As a representative of the Qatuna market, I wanted to ask you that knowing the division of the market, you know if the merchants have losses or waste of product, either because they are close to the expiration date or have a defect to be able to be sold, considering these facts, this You are aware that many of these arrive at the garbage dump with everything and food that can be used for people who need it. That said, it is known that there are several ways to be able to offer these products to people who really need them, such as being an ally of the Food Bank of Peru, which is in charge of gathering several products from different companies and then distributing them. I would be glad if you can take what I say into account, because there are several large and well-known companies that are involved in this. Without further ado, thanks for the time.

I await your prompt reply.

Buenas tardes,

Le saluda Q'umir Llaqta, deseando que se encuentre bien de salud.

Como representante del mercado Qatuna, queria preguntarle que conociendo la division del mercado, sabe si los comerciantes tienen perdidas o desperdicios de producto, ya sea porque estan cerca a la fecha de vencimiento o tienen un desperfecto para poder ser vendido, considerando estos hechos, esta usted consciente que muchas de estas llegan al basural con todo y alimento que puede ser aprovechado para personas que les hace falta. Dicho esto, se conoce que hay varias maneras de poder brindar estos productos a personas que realmente lo necesiten, como por ejemplo ser aliado del Banco de Alimentos del Peru, que se encarga de reunir varios productos de diferentes empresas para luego repartirlos. Agradaceria que pueda tomar en cuenta lo que le digo, porque san varias empresas grandes y muy reconocidas las que son participes de esto. Sin mas que agregar, gracias por el tiempo.

Espero su pronta respuesta.

Carabayllo, has many soup kitchens made by the neighbors to reduce their cost, so with the products that have some damage in the packaging and that will not be sold, Q'umir Llatac would appreciate if you can offer them, so it will support the close neighbors and it will be a good example for future companies.
